ABOUT ME

Student of the Higher Technician in Computer Network Systems Management (SysAdmin) with a strong inclination towards cybersecurity and front-end development. My interest in new technologies has led me to delve into key areas such as hardware configuration, promoting a preventative culture against threats and cyber intelligence.

Furthermore, my experience as an Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) has allowed me to develop skills such as strict adherence to protocols, making effective decisions under stress and providing assertive care to patients and the assisting team.

Additionally, I have gained a unique perspective as a Civil Protection volunteer on the importance of teamwork, hierarchical discipline and managing complex situations in the planning and coordination of preventive and emergency devices.

At this stage of my education, I am actively seeking job opportunities that will allow me to expand my technical knowledge and develop a solid career in the IT industry.

VOLUNTEERING

[04/2016 – Current] Benalmadena Local Group of Civil Protection Volunteers

Deputy Head of Group

My role as a volunteer in the organisation, where I have accumulated over 500 hours of service per year and completed numerous courses in medical assistance, firefighting, emergency vehicle driving, telecommunications, logistics, and rescue, involves providing preventive services whenever requested. I also serve as a driver for a standard car, a 4x4 vehicle, a logistics van, a basic life support ambulance (EMT) and a maritime rescue boat (as a skipper). Additionally, I promote essential self-protection knowledge for public safety at events and collaborate in emergency situations alongside law enforcement agencies, firefighters, healthcare services and other Civil Protection units.

Furthermore, I was appointed Team Leader on 1 December 2018 and later promoted on 25 May 2019 to Head of the Telecommunications and New Technologies Unit. My duties included the continuous maintenance of radio transmitters, training new volunteers in their correct usage, and managing the organisation's official accounts on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, and YouTube, as well as its current website. Additionally, I was responsible for the IT section, optimising corporate equipment (both hardware and software) and creating multimedia content using materials generated from services, courses, workshops, official events and more.

Currently, following a restructuring of the leadership team on 21 January 2021, I was appointed Deputy Chief of the organisation. In this role, while maintaining all my previous responsibilities within the Telecommunications and New Technologies Unit, my administrative and operational management duties have significantly increased. These include training other volunteers in my areas of expertise and overseeing the induction process for new recruits.

[03/2017 – Current] Benalmadena Local Forest Fire Support Group

Firefighting Assistant

As a member of the Local Forest Fire Support Group in my municipality, I voluntarily contribute my time and knowledge to firefighting services (Firefighters, BRICA, INFOCA...) to support them in tasks such as creating firebreaks, laying hose lines, and monitoring weather conditions, among other activities, during any fire where our assistance is required.
